

5G Dynamic Spectrum Management, Optimization and Planning: The Prerequisite to Deploy 5G

Training Programme
by
Faculty of Engineering

Overview

Why 5G? Why D2D? Fifth generation (5G) is an upcoming standard for wireless communications that coexists with the current LTE-A network to provide higher throughput. Today 2021, spectrum Management, Optimization and Planning are required as a Prerequisite to Deploy 5G. In this context, it is becoming an important concept which promises the overall performance enhancement by allowing direct communication between the devices which are in proximity. The idea of implementing in-band and out-band spectrums together in a D2D assisted mobile users will be relevant to the landscape of the 5G networks today. In this workshop, the participants will learn more about efficient dynamic spectrum that utilize the licensed and unlicensed bands, based on the distance between the D2D link, in such a way that it selects the best band for establishing the D2D links in the network. The participants will learn practically about the distance between the D2D link, where it selects the most efficient band that reduces the interference of the D2D connection and maximizes the network throughput. At the end of the program, participants will familiarize more on the 5G dynamic spectrum to achieve a higher network performance compared with other static spectrums. This workshop is useful in Telco in Malaysia for service satisfaction.
