Fill in your personal particulars as well as any other information requested on the form. Kindly provide a recent passport-sized colour photo of yourself at the top of the form. You must specify the intended field of study or programme in which you wish to enrol for your Master's degree. Your APEL.A certificate will show the intended field of study or programme that you specified in your application.

STEP 2: Details of Learning Acquired

In this section, you must list all prior experiential learning that you have attained, including formal, informal, and non-formal learning.

Formal learning is organised and structured in a formal setting, and you will receive a certificate that can be used to get a job or for other formal purposes. SPM, STPM, Matriculation Certificate, Foundation Certificate and Diploma are some examples of certificates received in formal learning.

Informal learning is never organised because it is focused on the value of experience related to work, home, or leisure time. Being a volunteer for Rumah Anak Yatim Insan, secretary for Kelab Rekreasi Megah Holdings Bhd., and member of *Pusat Kolam Komuniti Damansara Alif*f are examples of how you can acquire informal learning.

Meanwhile, non-formal learning can be a structured and organised learning process, but it is not certified or accredited. This type of learning is intended to improve a variety of skills and competencies, and it can take place in the workplace or in other organisations. Conferences, seminars, training, and non-credit courses in subjects such as language, fitness, first-aid, and so on are examples of non-formal learning.

Certificated Learning (Formal Learning)

Make a list of all formal education you have received. This will include any certification you received during secondary education as well as any other formal learning you have completed.

An example of an academic qualification you can fill in the first column is Diploma in English Communication.

Then, list the awarding agency or institution that bestowed the certification on you. Fill in the name of your previous institution or university that awarded the Diploma certificate to you. Insert the year you received the qualification in the Year Awarded column. Put the year 2018 if you finished you Diploma in 2018.

To fill in the Competencies column, refer to Appendix 5 in the student handbook to see what you should have learnt based on your academic qualification.

Last but not least, list the evidence of learning for each academic qualification you obtained, using Appendix 4 of the student handbook.

Fill in the blanks in the columns by starting with the most recent certification. The verified copies of the certificates will be organised under the evidence of learning section later. It is suggested that you label your appendix appropriately, such as Appendix A for formal learning certificates, Appendix B for informal learning evidence, and Appendix C for non-formal learning evidence.

Experiential Learning (Informal and Non-Formal Learning)

Make a list of all of your experiential learning. This could include your work-related learning experiences, training/seminar/workshop attendance and other learning skills.

Work-based

In the first table, you must state your work experience in chronological order, beginning with your latest or most recent position. It is critical that you fill out the name of your employer (or your company if you are self-employed), the company's address, the duration of your employment and the title/position that you currently hold or previously held in this sub-section. You must indicate the type of position that the job entails/entailed in the final column. Last but not least, list the evidence of learning for each position you held, using Appendix 4 of the student handbook.

Training

You will need to make a list of all the learning experiences you have gained from training, seminars, or workshops that you have attended. These include any in-house job training, seminars or workshops that you were required to attend by your employer or that you voluntarily signed up for and attended in your spare time. For example, suppose you took a course in Introduction to Virtual Reality and you took the course on weekends. To complete this section, first write the name of course i.e. Introduction to Virtual Reality, followed by the location and dates of the course, as well as its duration (hour/day/month). In the final column, list the skills that you gained from the attending the course. Last but not least, list the evidence of learning you have obtained. This could be in the form of certificate, project work, etc. Refer to Appendix 4 of the student handbook for examples of different evidence of learning.

Other Learning Skills

*Note: All evidence must be properly labelled

You are also required to state other informal learning that you have obtained in the following section. Participation in community services, places of worships, recreation, or even associations are examples of informal learning. This is also important in your portfolio because these activities can demonstrate your communication, leadership, and other skills. To complete this section, list the name of the activity, the year(s) in which you participated and identify the set of skills (refer to the list provided) that you gained from the activity. Finally attach the evidence of learning using Appendix 4 in the Student Handbook as a reference.

Language Skills

This section emphasises your language proficiencies. Indicate your language proficiency in terms of listening, reading, speaking, and writing by indicating whether you are Poor (1), Average (2), Good (3) or Excellent (4). For example, if your native language or the language spoken at home is Bahasa Malaysia, you would rate yourself excellent at listening, reading, and speaking; however, you may not have an excellent ability for writing in the language, so you rate yourself good at writing. English and/or Mandarin are two other common languages. It will also be advantageous if you are fluent in any other third languages, such as Arabic or French.

e) SELF ASSESSMENT/REFLECTION (computery) Describe how your prior learning experiences prepare you for the intended level of study (Not more than 250 words): Why do you want to pursue this intended programme of study? How is your prior learning experience applicable to/related to/relevant to your chosen field of study? What are your action plans in ensuring the successful completion of your programme? (Commitment, time management, financial resources, and support, etc). How will the completion of this programme help you in your life?

Self Assessment or Reflection

There are four (4) questions that serve as guidelines for your reflection in this section to make it easier for you to write your self-assessment. This section is significant because your responses will give some indication of your preparation to begin the intended field of study.

For Question 1, explain in no more than 100 words why you want to continue your education in the field you've chosen. Look at an example of a response for this question:

"I intend to pursue an MBA in General Management." After more than 15 years of experience, I progressed from an administrative clerk to a managerial position. In addition, I need to improve my qualifications in order to advance in my career. With an MBA, I will be able to perform better in the areas of business management and administration that are required in my current position. Also, with an MBA, I will have the assurance of a formal postgraduate education and a better job prospect in the future." Question 2 asks you to reflect on your previous learning experiences and explain how they helped you prepare for your intended field of study. Here is a sample answer:

"I believe I have gained sufficient hands-on experience in the supervisory field to enable me to successfully complete the programme."

Question 3 requests your action plans in ensuring the successful completion of your study. Look at the example below:

"I have successfully applied for a study leave in order to focus on my MBA programme, and I am also in contact with several co-workers who are also registered for the programme so that we can have effective discussion groups."

Finally, in Question 4, you are asked to highlight the study's contribution to your personal and/or professional development. An answer to that can be something like this:

"Personally, the MBA will give me more confidence to excel in my career and a sense of personal achievement that I can also model for my children. Furthermore, the knowledge, hard skills, and soft skills I gained from the MBA will make me more skilled and versatile, potentially opening more doors to a better career in the future".
